BOAT CARE

27.01.09

To whom it may concern:

We are a super yacht painting company based in Mallorca and were approached by CWS-Int. Ltd. in June 2006 about becoming agents for their Permanon range of products.

As we are primarily a paint company, our first concern was that these products would not affect, in any way, newly applied paint and, secondly, that they would not affect the re-painting of yachts treated with Permanon. We initiated our own in-house trials and it very soon became clear that Permanon passed our tests without the slightest problem. We were also suitably impressed with the effects of Permanon on both new and old paintwork.

Two and half years down the line all new paintwork treated with Permanon is still looking like freshly applied paint and on older paintwork there has been virtually no more degeneration of the paint. This applies to all our company vehicles (about which even our competition comment on how they are always looking so good) and on all the super yachts it has been applied to.

We feel that using the Permanon treatment and maintenance program will significantly extend the time between repainting whilst at the same time making wash-downs a lot quicker and leaving the yachts looking that much better that they noticeably stand out in the Superyacht marinas of the world.

Several owners have requested that we supply them with Permanon for their car fleets, houses and aircraft after noticing the difference in their yachts.

Please feel free to contact me for further information,
Yours Faithfully,
